dedication . . .

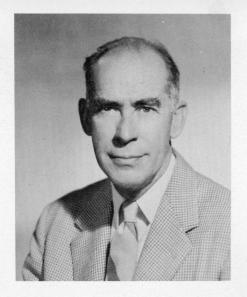

. . . to our parents, whose steps have shown us the right path and whose guiding hands have kept us on that path; at the end of it lies the fulfillment of parental hopes, dreams, and aspirations, turned through years of careful cultivation into the graduates' inspirations.

We have now reached our first great milestone in life — graduation into the adult world. In attaining this goal we thank our parents and our teachers, who have taught us to utilize our abilities in academic and practical ways, a quality indispensable in a good, useful, humble citizen who is to find his fitting place in society.

SENIOR SKETCH

We of the Class of '58 feel that we have had a really great time in the years we have been together. We like to feel that we have tried our best and accomplished quite a lot. Perhaps our greatest downfall was our inability to work as a group until this year. It is a proud thing to be able to say that we feel that we have finally became "one."

Since the lowly grade seven we have been pushing steadily ahead. The seventh and eighth grades were mainly years of becoming adjusted to the change of growing into "big kids." The highlight of these two years was our eighth grade graduation dance, our first big dance as a class!

Our freshman year was a faltering one, and there was no class dance.

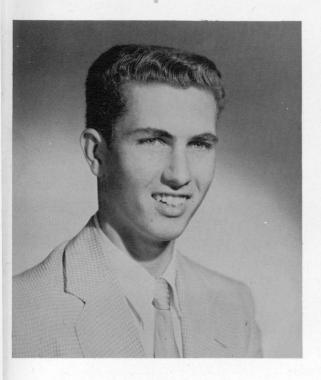

There has been a highly successful dance every year since then, however; we had the best Senior Ball yet.

Our junior trip to Albany was one of our biggest group events, but the Washington trip was by far the thing that will be outstanding in our memories for years to come. Here we discovered how many wonderful classmates we had.

The class of '58 extends its best wishes to all the senior classes to come at P.R.H.S. We hope they will never forget the great school to which we all belong.

The Student who sat quietly in class and always had a pleasant smile on his face,

The Football Player who strove hard to make his school proud of him,

The Athlete who looked forward to perfecting his discus throw,

The Dancer who loved to dance and even had a style all his own,

But, most of all, the Boy whose memory will live in the hearts of all those who knew and liked him:

That's Frank.

Finally on the bottom rung of "high school superiority" as freshmen, the thought uppermost in the minds of the class of '58 was to have that dance: the Freshman Frolic. Having hardly any money, they worked like beavers on their cake sales and coffee sales. With the hard work of each of them, they had a dance of which to be proud.

Now as full-fledged sophomores, they have worked steadily and successfully for that "thing in the future"—the Sophomore Hop. They worked hard and constantly pleaded for donations.

But this year has not been all work and no play, for they found a funny angle on the trip to the city as a part of their journalism course and took part in all school social activities. When a proud sophomore was seen in the halls, it was realized that he had enjoyed the past two years but, nevertheless, looked forward to a brighter and, if possible, happier future at P.R.H.S.

With over 130 members, the freshman class had a rather difficult time getting organized. The Freshman Frolic, after being postponed from February to April, was a success. Money was raised by collecting fines for gum chewing and by selling soda at basketball games. With entertainment supplied by members of the class, a cheerful atmosphere prevailed at the dance. The freshmen have enough money left for a good start in their activities next year.

Accompanied by its usual life and color, the '57 football season returned with a veteran Buc team.

The team was given so much sup-though the team had to cope with a flu epidemic, someone was always there, blocking a pass, running the ball, tackling an opponent, or showing in some other way P.R.'s unflagging spirit.

Members of the '57 Pirate soccer team were certainly not on it for the kicks. They worked as industriously as they could, practicing diligently and playing wholeheartedly. During every game, the Pirates really used their heads, taking advantage of each opening. Although the spectators at soccer games may not have been as numerous as those at football games, the same number of players did a dual job, keeping both the field and P.R.'s spirit alive.

This year's wrestling squad had a successful season, considering that two lightweight classes were forfeited at every meet. The team finished in third place with a 1-2-1 record, defeating Haverstraw and tying the second-place Clarkstown matmen. One first and three second places were taken by the Pirates in the county meet. Second place honors went to Frank Stuart in the 138 lb. bracket, Tom Theise, 145 lb. class, and Clint Weitmann in the 154 lb. class. Al Fischbein took first in the 168 lb. class and also was awarded a trophy for outstanding wrestler of the county. The Suffern wrestling coach stated that we have the strongest man-for-man team, aside from Suffern, in Rockland County.

HOOP

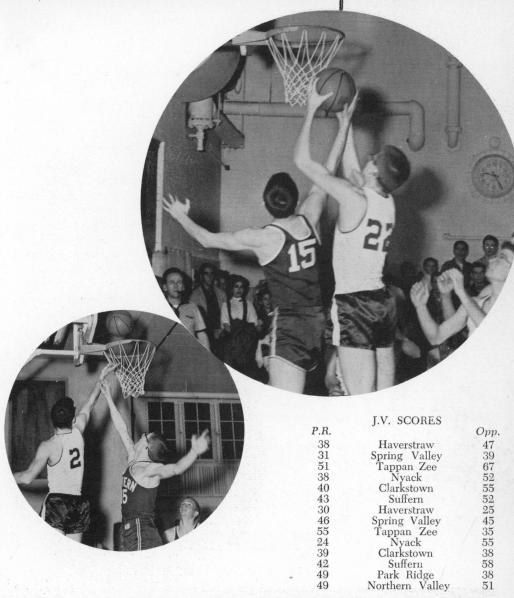

This year's squad had spark and spirit, upsetting Spring Valley, Haverstraw and Clarkstown. Their record is misleading because many of the games were close. The boys look forward to next year because only one of the starting five is graduating. This year's team was coached by Mr. Baker. The Jayvees showed remarkable improvement after the first half-season, winning the first three games of the second half. They were coached by Mr. Brockman.

NET NOTES

Consisting of many of the county's best players, the Pirate tennis team did not toy with its opponents. Under Coach Bowden the boys showed aggressiveness and had a better county standing than any other fall sport team in P.R. Pirates took seven of ten contests, five by clean sweeps, losing both encounters with Suffern.

PIN PATTER

The Keglers knocked many pins down this year to take second place in the Rockland County League. Coached by Mr. Bowden, they had the highest team score ever reached in the county.

GIRLS' LEADERS' CLUB

Throughout the soccer, hockey, basketball and volleyball seasons the Girls' Leaders' Club has sponsored many interscholastic games and participated in still others. During the spring when individual sports such as archery and badminton are practiced, the flexible organization readily drops the fouls of basketball for the birds of badminton. The Mother and Daughter Dinner was initiated this year by the club. This was an example of its initiative, organization, and capability—qualities necessary in each of the members.

BOYS' LEADERS' CLUB

Although, in the absence of Mr. Talaska, the Boys' Leaders' Club did not function as usual, some of our outstanding athletes did participate as cheerleaders at the Father-Son basketball game. However, at their request, this picture remains unidentified.

CHEERLEADERS

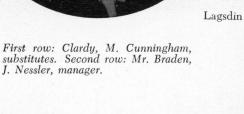

G. Katt

P. Clift

Although they had their spills and falls, it was a great year for the Varsity Cheerleaders. P.R.'s not receiving the Sportsmanship Banner for football season was caused only by the PSAL's discontinuing the season as a result of the numerous cancelled games. However, this and other records of Pirate sportsmanship have proved that the student body, with the aid of well-chosen cheerleaders, could support the team.

Saunders

The J.V. cheerleaders began their activities this year with a pep rally dance in cooperation with the Varsity squad. As in the past the J.V. squad cheered at J.V. football, basketball, and home varsity soccer games. They opened all pep rallies, some of which were on an experimental basis.

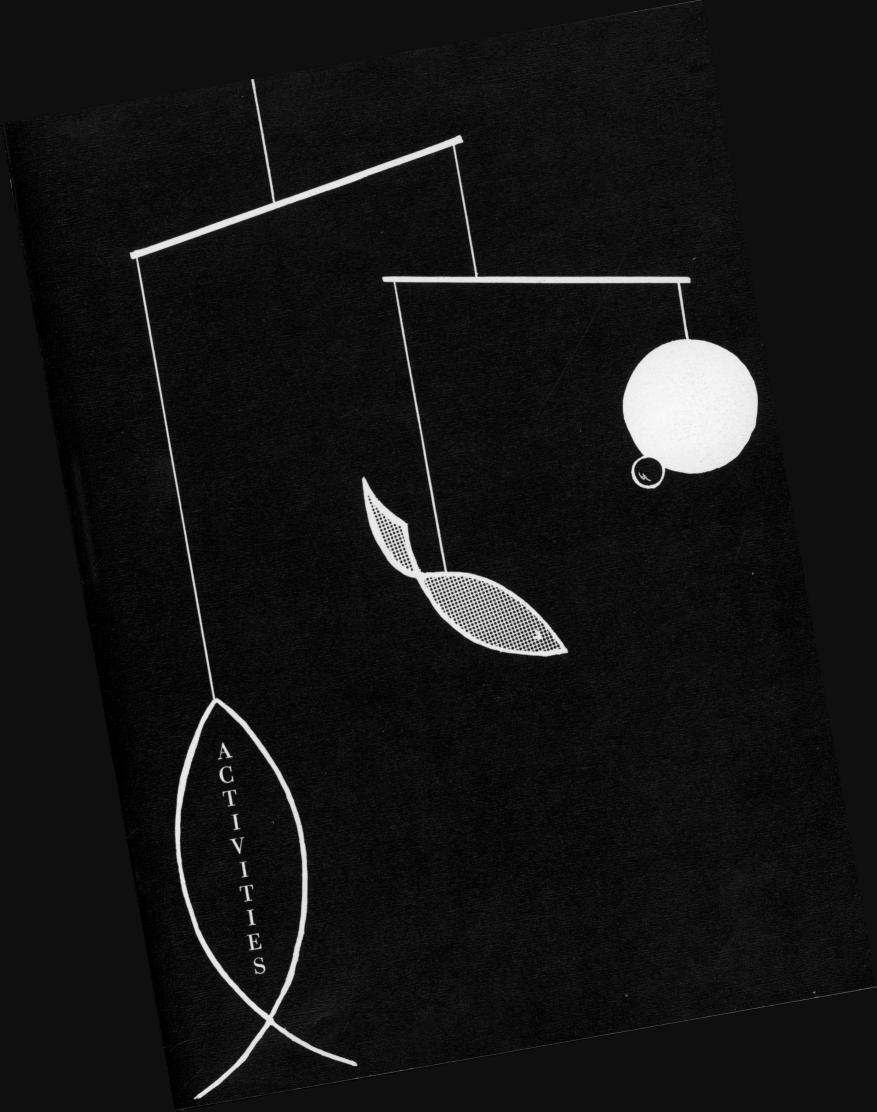

Winter

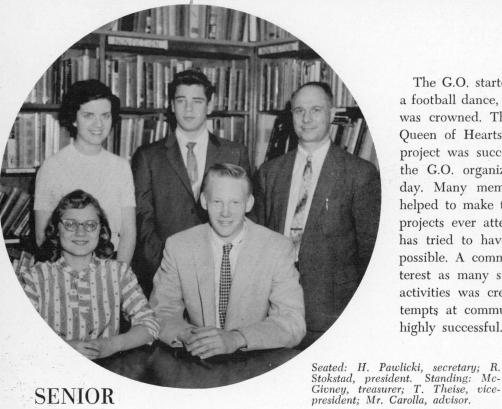

J. Holmsen

The G.O. started its activities by initiating a football dance, at which our football queen was crowned. The G.O. also sponsored the Queen of Hearts dance in February. A big project was successfully accomplished when the G.O. organized the community service day. Many members of the student body helped to make this one of the best student projects ever attempted. This year the G.O. has tried to have as much participation as possible. A community bulletin board to interest as many students as possible in G.O. activities was created. These large scale attempts at community betterment have been highly successful.

10TH GRADE REPRESENTATIVES: N. Riecker, J. Rommer, W. Carpenter, B. Quinn, Morrison, Coffman.

ORGANIZATION

JUNIOR OFFICERS

9TH GRADE REPRESENTATIVES: McArthur, Ewald, Hart, Fontaine, Astman, D. Smith, LaRue. 8TH GRADE REPRESENTATIVES: M. Pawlicki, Dann, J. Fortmann, D. Dapice, Garfield. 7TH GRADE REPRESENTATIVES: Falt, Gallo, P. Richmond. Not pictured: Naugle.

First row: Rohr, H. Pawlicki, J. Holmsen, K. Oleson, McGivney, T. Theise, D. Dapice, Lobdell, Winter, P. Schwartz. Second row: P. Fortmann, B. Ricker, J. Bohnel, Swindells, Wood, R. Stokstad, Schaab, D. Williams, Schwimmer, Miss Corbett.

HONOR SOCIETIES

Reaching "unattainable" goals is not unusual here, for all the Senior Honor Society members have attained an average of 85% or above and have displayed high standards of leadership, service, dependability and cooperation. Highlights of the year were the sponsorship of Marcella Bassani and Mahipala Udabage, who were the Herald Tribune Forum students, and the two induction assemblies.

The club was led by Jack Wood, president; Dick Schaab, vice-president; Douglas Dapice, secretarytreasurer; and advisor, Miss Nancy Corbett.

The newly chartered Junior Honor Society had a busy program this year, seeing a Broadway show and having special speakers. "Sponsored by the Junior Honor Society" was seen on many posters advertising both intellectual and social school functions.

First row: Bergman, Phelps, Morlan, Clark, J. Fortmann, Gindroz, Kiser, J. Frederick, Sluys, Picken, Ewald. Second row: Radiola, Astman, D. Marley, Hammond, Lochner, Breuer, Levere, Hutchings, Hart, Fontaine, S. Hanna, Lefkowitz, L. Carpenter, L. Thoms, J. Honigstock, C. Littlefield, Blakesley, McIntyre, Dann. Third row: Mr. Keach, La Rue, McArthur, D. Smith, Garfield, P. Stokstad, Yunger, H. Schwartz, Laub, Klainer, M. Pawlicki, D. Dapice, T. Theise, Stayner, T. Maiorano, Ellefsen.

Seated: Gettleson, R. Benevento, Hart, M. Cunningham. Second row: P. Schwartz, Garfield, Nachimson, Jacoubovitch, Samuelson, McMahon, LaRue. Third row: Dann, Morrison, Akhurst, J. Noonan, Lefkowitz, Rotjan, Hutchings, Levere, Mr. Carey. Fourth row: Wood, Aicher, Deligny, Barbour, L. Noonan, B. Quinn.

With "You Can't Take It With You" as the Mask and Wig's main production, the club has had a successful season of dramatic shows, both large and small. Members have had the chance to learn how to work with other characters in a play in perfect accord through major and minor roles. Introduction in applying makeup, as well as seeing shows and learning other dramatic techniques, has been an important part of this year's program.

MASK and WIG

Advisors: Mr. Combs, Mr. Wood.

THE PIRATE

The arts of photography, layout, design, writing, and salesmanship were all utilized by the Yearbook in producing and distributing the 1958 Pirate. Although deadlines were often difficult to meet, the last page was finally sent to the publishers where, thanks to the Business Department, hundreds of copies of it would be made. The staff enjoyed compiling the Yearbook and hoped that the reader would have as much enjoyment in reviewing Pearl River High 1957-58 from time to time.

First row: B. Hopko, Soderberg, A. Bohnel, R. Cunningham, N. Riecker, Bow, W. Hammond. Second row: P. Clift, K. Oleson, A. Salvadore, M. Bornstein, C. Bach, Harris, Bichette, Kelly.

First row: M. Cooper, Falt, Blickman, Jaedke, Naugle, M. Schwartz. Second row: Anderson, Schultzel, Coffman, Hadeler, Stevens Wallace, McArthur, P. Stokstad, R. Etkin. Third row: Karp, Mr. Brockman, Akhurst, Bishopp, Soman, P. Martin, Tobin, Rohr, A. Kiser, Kelly, Chopko.

Regardless of the print it uses, the Pirates' Log always has the right type of news. Every other Friday, whether the weather was good or bad, the circulation staff distributed the informative, entertaining news that the literary and typing staffs had so excellently compiled. This year's Pirates' Log served as a stepping stone for many future journalists and provided a worthwhile avocation for others.

PIRATES LOG

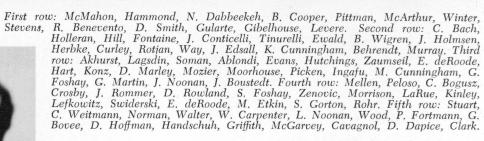

PIRATES PATCH

The Pirate Patch, Pearl River High School's literary magazine, was a project on the part of the school to help those students who are interested in creative writing. It was published by the Pirate's Log and follows the newspaper's principles and policies. The Patch had its own staff, separate from that of the Pirate's Log, and produced a most entertaining second edition.

First row: McArthur, Coffman. Second row: Mr. Brockman, Molluso, E. deRoode, V. Walsh.

CHORUS

Those who heard dissonant sounds, warbling or flatting throughout both the year and the halls were not alarmed, only because they knew it was the Senior High Chorus practicing for their enjoyable concerts, sectionals, state contest and county chorus. Chorus consisted of early risers in grades 9-12, who practiced from 8:00 a.m. to 8:35 a.m., and to those who slept later and participated in 5th period chorus. The chorus is under the leadership of Mrs. Charlotte Murray.

Mrs. Murray

row: Klainer, D. Katt, C. Ainsworth, Burke, P. Mc-Crosky, Kettgen, Falt, Braunfeld, I. Bach, J. Honigstock, Goren, Vite. Fourth row: L. Allen, P. Rommer, P. Richmond, C. Foshay, Clauson, L. Thoms, Schneider, L. Carpenter, Thornton, Winne.

PERCUSSION: R. Fredericks, Reedy, M. Schwartz, Sherman, J. Wigren. CLARINETS: Cavagnol, D. Dailey, J. Edsall, Grant Pitt, Radiola, Swindells, Wodehouse. FLUTES: C. Bovee, C. Carlson, Knightly, P. Schwartz, Sievers, A. Wodehouse. BASSOON: Griffith. SAXOPHONES: G. Bovee, D. Dapice, deTurris, J. Taylor. TRUMPETS: Aicher, Bergmann, Fagan, G. Gorton, Groupp, Insley. SOUSAPHONES: S. Foshay, D. Hoffmann, Wood. TROMBONES: McCauley, Stolte. BARITONES: Phelps, A. Salvadore.

BAND

The band proved again to be a notable key in the scheme of activities at P.R.H.S. Mr. Salzman's aggregation began with special marching practice for the football season and ended with the well-received pop assembly.

The Spring Concert, numerous assembly performances, and parades created a busy season for the musicians. Individual members contributed their talents to special state, county and sectional groups performing advanced levels of music.

Mr. Edwin Salzman

BOPTONES

The "Boptones," P.R.H.S.'s newly-reorganized dance band, has had much praise from the students. The president, Mike Reedy, hopes for a bright future for the group. The band is already trying to make a record. Playing the right notes as they have been will soon give them the musical key to success.

First row: Schwimmer, G. Bovee, M. Reedy, Stolte, Swindells, Salvadore, Lawlor. Second row: Wood, Stokstad, D. Williams.

INTERNATIONAL

Starting a new association with Conakri, Africa, and renewing an old association with Fontainebleau, France, have engaged the attention of the Affiliation Club. Sending songbooks to both schools, compiling a scrapbook of P.R.H.S. and making tape recordings have been some projects of the club.

The Hostelers have undoubtedly taken up much of the limelight usually afforded the entire Affiliation Club. All Hostelers are members of this parent organization. With preparatory trips and special training classes forming a major part of the organization's program, the Hostelers planned diligently for the summer's bicycle trip through France, Germany, Holland and Belgium.

RELATIONS

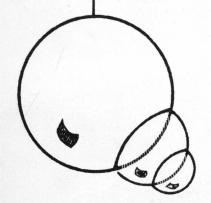

Marcie from Italy and Mike from Ceylon were this year's Herald Tribune Forum students sponsored by the Senior Honor Society. They most certainly left lasting, lively pictures of their countries in Pearl River; it was hoped by all at P.R.H.S. that they received as wonderful an impression of the United States from this community.

Aura Gularte, who returned from Guatemala with Judy Fredericks, a junior, has given the students of P.R.H.S. a vivid picture of her country by doing native dances and attending numerous school and community functions. Aura, along with Judy, has helped to create better understanding here for Latin American culture.

TRAFFIC COURT and SQUAD

Members of the Traffic Squad are, unfortunately, forced to bear the hazards of policemen without any comparable recognition of their heroic deeds. These brave souls deserve credit for the unmoving stand they take when classes are changed, assemblies are held, or when they are confronted with special events, which call for quick thinking.

First row: Mr. Frahn, Drummond, W. Carpenter, Swindells, A. Cooper, D. Dapice. Second row: Aicher, La-Rue, J. Fredericks, P. Fortmann, Landgren, B. Hanna, R. Carlson, D. Marley. Third row: Covey, Barbour, L. Richmond, Cavagnol, Griffith, D. Littlefield, S. Foshay, L. Robertson, Bow.

Seated: Peloso, G. Katt, Crosby, Ingafu. Standing: Dr. Hudson, Jaedke, E. Nelson, G. Foshay, Bow. Hill, Schroeder, Miss M. McDonough.

F. T. A.

The Future Teachers of America is providing basic training for its members, who plan to enter the profession of enlightenment. When it comes to methods of training, these future teachers don't remain in the dark for long. Some of them actually teach in the lower gracies. Others serve as teachers' assistants. Field trips to visit colleges are also frequent School has most certainly affected these students for the best. Should they have their own way, they will all be behind the big desk, with the tables reversed.

LIBRARY SERVICE CORPS

The Library Service Corps has made this year one of its most active, in which they took a trip to the Young People's Library and a bindery in New York, and sponsored a Book Week Tea and the book drive for Rockland State Hospital. This organization has well-fulfilled its obligations to the school as a service club. Its members, who work in the library for many hours, all deserve letters for the great amount of time which they have spent in keeping our materials organized.

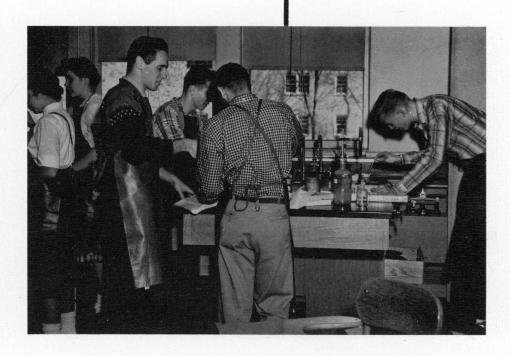

First row: Speechley, Wolt, LaRue, Mrs. Justice, J. Conley, Pfahl. Second row: Rotjan, Gindroz, Picken, Evans, Friedel, J. Edsall, M. Williams, P. Kiernan, Moorehouse, Breuer, Drummond.

A. O. A.

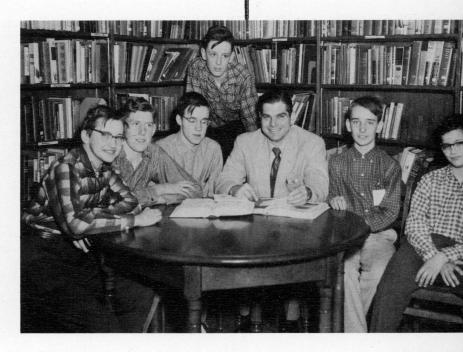

First row: A. Cooper, Ulmer, P. Fortmann, Bichette, Barbour, Mr. Stanley. Second row: Thoms, R. Carlson, D. Honingstock, Clardy, W. Carpenter, Aicher, Fasulo.

Test tubes, mysterious mixtures, and then the unexpected — it really works. Many members of the Ancient Order of Alchemists have received this shocking but pleasant surprise; in doing so they have proved the value of the activity with which this organization provides the interested student. Excursions to science fairs, work in the laboratory and a library of both basic and colorful facts are available to the AOA member. In the technical world of today, the AOA presents an impetus for all students who wish to enter any scientific field.

STAMP | CLUB

When members of the Stamp Club ramble through their albums, they glow in looking at the old pictures, the older the better, the squares, rectangles, and triangles which have sped letters all over the world. Club members have spent much time and money on this hobby that really "sends them." The results of their efforts have been shown in county exhibition, in which they have participated for the past several years.

Seated: Brovarski, Morlan, La Rue, Mr. McGrath, M. Williams, W. Quinn. Standing: R. Paska.

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club was characterized by many informal meetings, usually meetings of the minds. A tournament open to the whole school was the highlight of the club's activities.

HUNTING and FISHING CLUB

Sporting guns or poles on their shoulders in spring and fall, these avid game hunters searched for prey or sat and prayed for fish. At meetings instruction in the safe use of equipment was often given. This instruction was also applied to game laws, making the members better sportsmen.

SKI CLUB

Although the Ski Club got off to a slow start this year because there was little early snow, it had a rather successful season. There were numerous day trips to Bellayre and Highmount ski centers. On one trip students from five schools in the county participated. There was also one weekend trip to Pico ski center in Rutland, Vermont.

NEW YORK STATE HISTORY

CLUB

First row: W. Quinn, T. Williams, Falt, R. Brewer, Silberman, Farrell, Braunfeld. Second row: M. Smith, D. Marley, J. Kaiser, Bassett, Rustin, Gordon, Thiessen, K. Pitt, Lilburn. Third row: Sievers, Gallo, Ramsey, J. Werley, Mr. Braden, Albertson, Sharpless, Blickman, Naugle.

The New York State History Club is composed of students from the seventh and eighth grades. They are interested in the history of their community and state and are willing to do research on it. With the help of Mr. Braden, faculty advisor, this new organization has been well launched.

SHORTHAND CLUB

The newly formed Shorthand Club, which got under way this year with Mr. Albertson as its advisor, gave many future secretaries the opportunity to boost their shorthand speed. At its meetings several times a week, these girls took dictation at various speeds until everyone attained a speed of at least 120 words per minute.
